Spiritual news from the grand old town of Decatur:

The Rev. A. Q. Bridwell, of this place, has started a campaign to make Decatur the prayingest town in the United States. He figures that if the 2,000 professing Christians of Decatur will devote thirty minutes each day to prayer, that will make 1,000 hours of petition, which cannot but help the moral tone of the country.

COMMITTEE REPORT

STATE SENATE
STATE OF ARIZONA

Eighth Legislature-Regular Session

Phoenix, Arizona

Mr. President:

The Minority, Your committee on Highways and Bridges, begs to report that it recommends that Senate Bill No. 114, relative to paying the accomodating creditors of the State of Arizona do pass.

Because if these unquestioned accounts, passed due, is an emergency measure and if not paid would embarrass the State credit, injure the business throughout the State, to the serious extent of bankrupting legitimate business houses, through the loss of over three-fifths millon dollars in circulation at this time. It is an empty jesture of pretense to put the $665,-800.00 dollars due the creditors of Arizona, in the unfair unbusinesslike highway bill, that does not provide for matching of Federal aid and progressive road building programme, but only makes a political football and a club over the head of the creditors of the State of Arizona, department, organization and individuals desiring and appreciating the necessity of roads and reclamation for the State of Arizona. I can see only one object for such political football club tactics except that it is intended to work for the benefit of the Copper Company's of this State, that dont live here or have any permanent interest in Arizona and these same Copper interests are now and have been combined through their Diamond Creek power dam holdings, in such a way as would assist in the hugest money grab and destruction of State Democratic National rights, known in civilized history by adding the endeavors to even at this late date to get through the Colorado River Compact-Tri-State Compact-Boulder Dam-Diamond Dam-Swing-Johnson Bill.

And Mr. Colter has been designated as manager of the Bill.

Fred T. Colter.

Chairman.

CALIFORNIA

From Los Angeles, the home of all Big Ideas:

A doll party in honor of a little girl whose spirit left her body several years ago—and only six months after birth—will be given Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Alice Baldridge, 1688 West Thirty-sixth place. "My little daughter Alice will be at the party, too, and she will speak through my lips," said Mrs. Baldridge. "We have arranged for an angel doll, symbolizing Alice, to be suspended in the air and to watch the christening of the other dolls, which will be performed by Mrs. Anton Dahl. Following the christening I shall place myself at the control of my little daughter of the spiritland and she will speak, through my lips, words of beauty and joy."

From a reader of the Record of the same appalling town:

I am sane, no fanatic and can verify what I saw and am about to relate by a seventeen-year-old boy. Palm Sunday night, just before retiring, I went outdoors to see if it was still raining. As I looked up I saw a life-sized angel with outstretched wings flying in the opposite direction from the clouds. As I watched I ran down the steps to the driveway to see better. It then flew between a rift in the clouds, where before it had been in plain view. As it went behind the clouds it was bluish white in color, throwing off a light such as comes from the moon. As I ran upstairs to call a lady to see it, my oldest boy of seventeen years, who was in his room with his window up, called out: 'Mama, what did you say you saw? Come here quick.' I ran into his room quickly, but by that time there was visible only a little purple spot as it was disappearing. My son had seen its reflection through the clouds. He said it looked like a bear in form but was very bright and traveling in the opposite direction from the clouds. As it went into the rift between the clouds there came up a terrific wind that almost swept me off my feet. At this time it was not raining. The color was something like the tail of a comet, the form distinct. It flew away much faster than the clouds were moving, like a huge bird. My phone is 582-478, if you wish to ask anything further. I am even willing to give my address if desired.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Scientific news from the capital of the Republic:

Gaseous trails left in the earth's atmosphere by Halley's comet in 1910 were blamed for the World War by Dr. F. Homer Curtiss, founder of the Order of Christian Mystics, who addressed the Woman's Universal Alliance. The gas made humanity nervous and suspicious, he said, and if another war occurs in 1929 the Pons-Winnicke Comet of last June must be blamed. Generation of a great wave of humanitarianism was suggested to neutralize the cosmic forces.

GEORGIA

From the love column of the eminent Atlanta Journal:

DEAR MARIE Rose: I am a young man, twenty-four years of age, and deeply in love with a beautiful young girl about my own age. She is a school teacher, well educated and refined, and although I am a graduate of a prominent barber college, I feel that I am not her equal intellectually. She treats me sweetly but I am afraid to show her my true devotion. Now, Marie Rose, you have helped others, so please help me. Do you think I have a chance? I will await eagerly your reply.

BASHFUL BARBER.

Ecclesiastical note from the eminent Dahlonega Nugget:

We are told that Rev. Mr. Wade, while occupying the pulpit at Davis' Chapel last Sunday, happened to a very embarrassing accident. Being criticizing short dresses and other things that did not suit him, just as he rose on his tiptoes and swung his right arm round, like he was going to pitch a curved ball, down dropped his breeches. His wife told him that they were giving way, but it was too late. They fell quick, like the unveiling of a monument. The old man stooped down and had the garment in position as quick as one of his age could do so. Every one in the congregation took a hearty laugh, because it was the funniest thing ever seen in a pulpit.

ILLINOIS

DOCUMENT for the student of the wowserian psychology, kindly provided by the Rev. Philip Yarrow, A.B. (Princeton), chief snouter of the Chicago comstocks:

Evidence is now at hand. Witnesses have been found. I strike! Punishment to the guilty may or may not come. Guilty people are constantly escaping punishment. That is the major cause of the increase in crime. But whether the court says guilty or not guilty, my mind is clear. My conscience challenges me to action, and I must keep comfortable with my conscience. I strike! I take the hammer of God in my hand. God calls me and I strike! The consequences are in His hands. I strike for the mothers and babies of Chicago! I strike for the children of Chicago! I strike for the homes of Chicago! I strike for the city I love! I strike for America and the rich heritage of her high ideals of sex purity and noble living. I strike against one of the foulest abominations in America today, the obscene, atheistic stag party.

INDIANA

Final and tragic news of the collapse of the Klan, direct from headquarters at Evansville:

W. Lee Smith, Indianapolis, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, and Miss Katherine Halbig, graduate nurse of St. Mary's Catholic Hospital and member of a Catholic church, were secretly married at Louisville, Ky., it has been revealed here, where the couple have been visiting Smith's brother-in-law, City Attorney Henry Hardin. They are at present guests of Smith's parents in Kentucky. Upon their return Mrs. Smith will remain here for a few days, Smith returning to Indianapolis to resume his duties as head of the Indiana Klan.

IOWA

THE REV. A. J. KUHLMAN, S.J., of Davenport, as reported by the Daily Times:

Jesus Christ showed obedience to civil govern-

From the State capital:

A bill introduced in the Iowa Legislature seeks to prevent barbers from asking questions or telling stories when performing tonsorial operations. It further provides that clean towels be used instead of the index finger to wipe lather from the customer's mouth.

KANSAS

Note on Christian philanthropy from Em-

If the 400 students at the College of Emporia can learn the 107 questions and answers of the Shorter Catechism, they will win the friendship of a millionaire philanthropist, who is considering a large benefaction to the school. To obtain this benefaction, the students have begun the difficult memory task with the hope that every man and woman in the school can answer the questions in the catechism without a mistake. In addition to private study the students will meet as classes to study the answers. The stipulation made by the philanthropist, whose name is withheld, was explained by Frederick W. Lewis, president of the College of Emporia. In a letter to President Lewis the benefactor

"I heard a minister, who was born and educated in this country, say that knowing the Shorter Catechism meant more to him for his sermons than all the theology he had learned in the seminary. Whenever each one of your students can answer the 107 questions in the Shorter Catechism as correctly as I can answer them after learning them fifty years ago, you can let me hear from you.'

Public announcement issued from the office of the State superintendent of public instruction:

Hereafter no recommendations for school positions will be made for teachers, instructors or superintendents who use tobacco in any form.

No State certificates or institute certificates will be issued to tobacco users. Schools and colleges which permit the use of tobacco by administrative heads, instructors or pupils can not remain on the accredited list.

Credit sent to the State department from normal schools, colleges, and universities where the heads of these institutions, faculty members or students use tobacco in any form will not be accepted for certification.

NEVADA

Divorce news from the eminent Reno State Journal:

That his girl wife consummated her marriage to him by fraud was the charge made by Harry Alemian when he asked Judge George A. Bartlett for a divorce yesterday.

He was afraid that she was not old enough for a wife, Alemian stated in his complaint, so he asked her parents. Both the father and mother assured him that she was eighteen years

Less than nine days after the marriage, the husband told the court, he discovered that his wife could not see more than a few inches before her face. A letter from her brother which she could not read revealed the fact. Also, when he took her to a dance, she told him that she desired to dance with a girl friend. He stated that he watched her pass within a few feet of the girl named without being able to recognize

He then investigated her age, and discovered that according to official records she was born March 14, 1910. She was only sixteen years old.

And he was informed by a friend that she suffered from having been hit over the head in her infancy with a frying pan.

The decree was granted.

Patriotic news from the Residenzstadt of Andy Mellon, from the eminent Gazette-Times:

The Minute Men of America are up in arms to prevent the commemoration of the first "for-eign invasion of America" by the erection of a statue of Christopher Columbus in Schenley Park by the Sons of Italy, according to a letter received by Council yesterday from C. Ruppa, Sr., secretary of the Minute Men of America, who gives his address as 1111 Lang avenue. The communication, which said the Minute Men wanted to support an earlier protest received by Council from the Knights of the American Krusaders, will go to the Committee on Public Safety. The letter, stating that the Minute Men already "has went on record" against the erection of the statue, says in part: "This is America and as Americans we should all be ruled by no foreign government, people, race, sect, creed or color. There is no halfway stop on this subject. You either are an American or you are not. Columbus did not discover America.

SOUTH CAROLINA

Miracle reported by the Union correspondent of the celebrated Columbia State:

Mrs. W. T. Wright of Monarch, mill worker, had a withered hand and arm for more than eight years, and three fingers could not be used at all. She had to stop work in the mill more than a year ago and the mill authorities were paying her total disability. About 11 o'clock Tuesday morning she was reading the Bible and came to the chapter Matthew xii, verses 10 and 13, saying: "Then saith he to the man, stretch forth thine hand, and he stretched it forth and it was restored whole, like as the other." Mrs. Wright stopped reading and began to pray, telling the Lord that He could heal her hand and she had the faith. As she said she had the faith, the hand stretched out perfectly whole as the other. She arose from her chair and began to shout, "Praise the Lord!" Many teachers, welfare workers, preachers and citizens have been to see Mrs. Wright, and confirmed the story.

RELIGION AND "WHO'S WHO"

BY ELLSWORTH HUNTINGTON AND LEON F. WHITNEY

THAT is going to happen to America in the matter of religion? Are we going to become Fundamentalists and Puritans in larger and larger numbers? Or are we going to throw religion overboard and becomes libertines in conduct? Or are we going to pursue a sensible middle course? One way to answer these questions is to estimate the relative importance of the current social tendencies, but a much more reliable way is to find out how fast people of different kinds are being born in the United States. If we do that, we shall find that if present conditions continue unchanged, Fundamentalism will win hands down. In a century all our blue laws may be more alive than ever; the artist as well as the scoffer may have to take to the tall timber, and the rest of our descendants may become Puritans. Absurd, you say. Well, perhaps it is, but anyhow that is what is suggested by the records of children in "Who's Who in America."

About half of the autobiographies contain statements of religious affiliations. On the average, it seems fair to assume that the persons who record them are somewhat more religious in temperament than are those who fail to do so. Is there any difference in the size of families in these two groups? Among the women, no; among the men, yes, decidedly. No less than 93% of the men who report a religious prefer nce are married, but only 84% of the others. About 83% of the more religious married men have children, and only 78% of the others. Moreover, the fathers of the religious group report 2.86 children apiece against 2.72 for the others. If all these differences are taken together, and if we make an allowance of 10% for children not reported because of their death in childhood, we find that 1,000 parents of the more religious type will presumably have about 1,130 great-grandchildren, whereas the same number of parents of the other type will have only about 590. This is a most significant difference. It means not only that the professional religious leaders have more descendants than do those in other lines of activity, but that in other occupations also the leaders of a more religious turn of mind are increasing at such a rate that a century hence their descendants will be twice as numerous, relatively, as those of the less religious elements. It is hard to overestimate the importance of that tendency.

But what kinds of religious people are increasing? Which denominations? At the top of the opposite page is a table which not only answers the question, but shows how many leaders each denomination is now supplying in proportion to the number of its adherents. We use adherents instead of members so that we may make fair comparisons between Roman Catholics and others. The size of the different denominations has been taken from "The Year Book of the Churches for 1925." Notice the extraordinary way in which the number of leaders to every 100,000 adherents rises, while the number of probable descendants declines, as we pass from the less intellectual denominations at the top of the table to the more intellectual at the bottom. The United Brethren, Evangelicals, Lutherans, Brethren, and Roman Catholics have only from 3 to 8 persons in "Who's Who" for each 100,000 adher-
