

Travel

streets are vivid with crowds of Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians, Nipponese, Portuguese, Chinese, Filipinos, Americans, Britons, Germans, and others.

The famous beaches beggar description, and, of course, everybody goes surf riding. Then there is the exquisite Kapiolani Park in Honolulu.

Of course, you must not fail to see Diamond Head, the extinct volcano where the United States Government has established fortifications.

Now take yourself from Hawaii to Nassau, if you please.

When you visit Nassau, you're virtually retracing the steps of Columbus.

San Salvador, where Columbus first discovered America is one of the 2,000 odd islands and rocks that go to form The Bahamas. Columbus, however, didn't have the brains to continue on to New Providence Island on which Nassau is situated, or he would have discovered the natural beauties of Paradise Beach.

Today, glass-bottomed boats afford the visitor the means of seeing the famous Marine Gardens in the harbor. Inland you'll enjoy the club, hotel, and social activities of this sample of British colonial life in the tropics. The American angle to the situation is Dirty Dick's — and let no man dismiss a good rum punch lightly!

Your itinerary allows plenty of time to visit Nassau's historic sights, included in which are the pre-Revolutionary forts and the famous Queen's staircase.

But enough of words. It's unnecessary to gild the lily. Nassau is all it's cracked up to be and should head your fall must list.

Market Scene, Nassau, The Bahamas

Cunard White Star

Forum Quiz Answers

1. Billy Rose (3)
2. Chum'-ly (2)
3. Oscar Wilde (2) ("Do you really think that it is weakness that yields to temptation? I tell you there are terrible temptations which it requires strength, strength and courage to yield to." — "An Ideal Husband," Act II)
4. A puzzling line from Gertrude Stein (3)
5. The Badgers (3)
6. A verse from "The Mikado," by Gilbert and Sullivan (3)
7. Eat it, with pleasure (3)
8. An association of well-to-do young ladies (2)
9. "Riding in a howdah is better than walking in that jungle!" (3)
10. Some of his sketches and water colors (3)
11. How many people listen to your radio program (3)
12. A movie stunt man (4)
13. William Blake (3)
14. Maude Adams (2)
15. The New York Daily News (3)
16. Kenneth L. Roberts (1)
17. Picasso (2)
18. Clark Gable (2)
19. His heart was pure (2)
20. Language of swing musicians and jitterbugs (3)
21. "This is certainly unusual for this time of year." (1)
22. There are about a dozen peaks higher than Pike's in Colorado (3)
23. William L. Chenery (2)
24. Abraham Lincoln (2)
25. A boxer of amazing speed and skill (1)
26. Edward Weston (1)
27. The Buckeye State (2)
28. Dorothy Parker (3)
29. His 5-room cottage retreat (2)
30. Francis Bacon (4) ("He that hath Wife and Children, hath given Hostages to Fortune." — from the essay, "Of Marriage and Single Life")
31. And I know she thinks o' me (2)
32. "You go first, and I'll precede you." (3)
33. The Windy City (1)
34. William McChesney Martin (3)
35. At least 4 games out of 7 (1)
36. Virgo (5)
37. Peter Freuchen (1)
38. The double-crossroads of America (2)
39. A novelist, using the name John Buchan (4)
40. Helsingfors (2)

TOASTS

JAMES V. TAYLOR spent his boyhood in Jersey City, where he is now a Y.M.C.A. secretary. In between, he wandered a good deal about the country, worked at a number of jobs, entered and graduated from college with no high-school preparation, and passed ten years in the Methodist Episcopal ministry.

FOSTER GILROY, a native Philadelphian, was once a newspaperman, on both the editorial and business sides. When the New York World, of which he had been advertising manager and assistant business manager, died, he tackled advertising, which still occupies him, in New York.

MARC A. ROSE, a native of the Middle West, is an ex-newspaperman. He was formerly Editor of Business Week and is known as a writer on monetary problems.

MARY M. COLUM, after a summer spent abroad, chiefly in Paris, will return to New York this October.

LLOYD FRANKENBERG is a rising young poet whose first professional acceptance was by THE FORUM.

LEWIS J. VALENTINE'S career as a New York City cop dates back to 1903. He rose through the ranks to the grade of Chief Inspector, and in 1934 was appointed Commissioner by Mayor La Guardia.

MORRIS L. ERNST has served as a member of the Banking Board of the State of New York under Governors Roosevelt and Lehman. He is now acting as counsel for the C.I.O. in its Jersey City embroilment over civil liberties.

The ANONYMOUS author of "The New Father" describes herself as "still youngish." "Once," she writes, "I was considered quite an authority on child training problems. Now I am actually staying at home and raising my child instead. There is a considerable difference involved!"

ALFRED S. CAMPBELL studied at Princeton, Pennsylvania, and Oxford. Since 1919, with intervals, he has farmed in several States. He is the author of An Introduction to Country Life and Golden Guernsey.

LINDSAY HOBEN, a veteran newspaperman, has been for the last twelve years with the Milwaukee Journal.

WILLIAM S. WEISS graduated from Columbia Law School and began practice in 1911. Forced by illness to retire in 1930, he conceived the idea of the legal clinic he describes in his article.

DAYTON D. MCKEAN, who for some years taught at Princeton University, is now with the English Department at Dartmouth College.

V. F. CALVERTON, founder and Editor of The Modern Monthly, is the author of The Liberation of American Literature.

Which road, America?

“Beer is one of the oldest and best of beverages; its use is widespread in every land; it is within the reach of every purse . . . The growth of its use in this country is bound to make for general temperance; for there is nothing more promising to combat the evil of too much alcohol than the opportunity of drinking good beer.”

IT IS NOT BLINDLY that we of today must choose our path. Many men before us have travelled each of the three roads...the dead-end road to excess, the harsh road of intolerance, the straight road ahead, which is the way of moderation and sobriety.

From time to time we of the Brewers Foundation plan to submit to you, the people of America, the facts about beer. We will show that beer does offer the right way . . . that this beverage is in fact the bulwark of moderation, according to the verdict of history, the weight of scientific evidence, and the everyday experience of millions.

And in thus uniting to give you these facts (and also to improve the conditions under which beer is sold at retail) the members of this Foundation believe they will perform a public service of genuine importance—and one which merits your understanding support.

Correspondence is invited from groups and individuals everywhere, interested in maintaining the brewing industry as a bulwark of moderation. Address:

United Brewers Industrial Foundation
21 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.