CAPTAIN SHAPELY: A COMEDY OF LONDON TOWN AND THE OXFORD ROAD IN THE DAYS OF QUEEN ANNE. By Harold Brighthouse. Robert M. McBride & Co., New York. $2.

A good title, a captivating subject, a pretty picture on the book jacket, and within a tale of the Ods-bodikins school of fiction. 'Tis but passing good, stap my vitals!

BIOGRAPHY

ERASMUS: By J. Huizinga. Charles Scribner's Sons, New York. $1.50.

The first volume of the "Great Hollanders Series," edited by Edward W. Bok; translated from the Dutch by F. Hopman, of Leyden. Here and there the translation obviously halts. The author (Professor of History in the University of Leyden) has produced a scholarly, interesting, and on the whole just, piece of work, worthy of its subject, the chief ornament of Dutch letters. This writer inclines to think that Professor Huizinga is not sympathetic enough towards Erasmus's character. On the other hand, the observations on Erasmus's defects of genius, though they hit hard, are just. Yet all defects should be forgotten in gratitude for "The Praise of Folly" (Moriae Enconium), one of the most amusing books ever written.

YOU TAKES YOUR CHOICE. By Clinton W. Gilbert. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York. $2.50.

The author is one, presumably the chief, of the authors of "The Mirrors of Washington."

The book consists of studies of the personalities of the six Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates, followed by slight but sometimes illuminating sketches of certain members of the Coolidge and Davis "circles," the Republican and Democratic National Chairmen, and others.

The best of the studies, in this writer's opinion, is that of Mr. Coolidge. It is witty, penetrating, and convincing; a brilliant example of effect achieved by the method of contrast. Mr. Gilbert quotes with approval some one's description of the young Coolidge: "Like the singed cat, he is better than he looks." He exhausts the witty possibilities of the "singed cat" resemblance (internal, more than external, so to speak), thereby arousing wonder and admiration for those extraordinary qualities of character which have brought Mr. Coolidge through, despite disabilities so tragic (so singe-ular, one might say). This essay has enough value in itself to "swing" the book.

Mr. Gilbert bestows on John W. Davis every sort of praise except that going to his suitability for President. He says that Mr. Davis "stood for nothing in particular" in the opinion of the Democratic National Convention, "and had the added advantage of doing so in a most distinguished way." Whether or no Mr. Gilbert so intended, his essay gives the impression that he shares the opinion of the Convention. It is not a convincing study. If written with malicious intent, it is a masterpiece; if not, it is a most unhappy performance.

The portraits of the other candidates are interesting, though not equal to the best in "The Mirrors of Washington" nor to the Coolidge portrait. Except for the Davis essay, the book may be recommended as on the whole enlightening and useful. It is eminently readable.

TRAVEL AND DESCRIPTION

WITH STEFANSSON IN THE ARCTIC. By Harold Noice. Dodd, Mead & Co., New York.
$2.50.

In 1915 the explorer Stefansson had been given up by the world as lost in the Arctic. An expedition was sent out in an endeavor to find and rescue him, and chance gave a twenty-year-old lad the rare opportunity to join it. Stefansson was found, and luck brought the lad a berth with the new expedition which Stefansson organized. He remained with the noted explorer during two years.

This story is a full account of his experiences as a full-fledged Arctic explorer. With Stefansson he explored some of the islands of that immense group which lies north of Canada and west of Greenland. Stefansson abhorred adventures. An adventure was a sign of weakness or of omission to provide against contingencies. Nevertheless the author appears to have had his share of adventure. The whole account is well written, shows a sense of humor, and incidentally is full of information.

Noice, like his leader, found the "Arctic wastes" interesting in summer. At 77° north latitude "wild flowers, like tiny sweet peas, blue and pink and purple, bloom along the brook close by. . . .
White and yellow butterflies pursue them. Beetles and ants tumble in and out of the crevices. Because the sun shines all of the twenty-four hours, the sod is spattered with flowers, although the highest temperature registered was eight degrees above freezing."

HISTORY AND POLITICAL ECONOMY

FALL OF THE DUTCH REPUBLIC (THE). By Hendrik Willem Van Loon. New Edition.
Houghton Mifflin Company, Boston. $5.

It seems strange now that Mr. Van Loon was not "discovered" when, in 1912, he issued this first of his historical volumes. So much of what has made his later works popular is already present, making the story of the downfall of the Dutch Republic far more interesting to read than most works of fiction. The
