DIRECTIONS

To solve this puzzle you must guess twenty-odd WORDS, the definitions of which are given in the column headed DEFINITIONS. Alongside each definition, there is a row of dashes—one for each letter in the required word. When you have guessed a word, write it on the dashes, and also write each letter in the correspondingly numbered square of the puzzle diagram. . . . When the squares are all filled in, you will find that you have completed a quotation from some published work. If read up and down, the letters in the diagram have no meaning. . . . Black squares indicate ends of words; if there is no black square at the right side of the diagram, the word carries over to the next line. . . . When all the WORDS are filled in, their initial letters spell the name of the author and the title of the piece from which the quotation has been taken. Of great help to the solver are the acrostic feature and the relative shapes of words in the diagram as they develop. Authority for spellings and definitions is Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition.

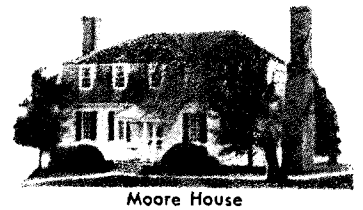

Solution of last week's Double-Crostic will be found on page 40 of this issue.

Yorktown—where one miracle led to another

Moore House

D.A.R. member and family at Yorktown battlefield, Va.

They were 13 tiny American colonies — untrained, ill-equipped, dis-united — pitted against the overwhelming might of the British Empire. If their Revolution was successful, it would be a miracle.

That miracle finally happened at Yorktown, Virginia in 1781 when Cornwallis and his redcoats surrendered to George Washington...and the miracle that is America came to be.

Today this American shrine, as part of Colonial National Historical Park, teaches an exciting history lesson. You can wander the streets of a town little changed in 175 years... see the redoubts and battlements authentically reconstructed...learn at first hand how our freedom was won.

At Yorktown, too, you can see the handiwork of one of America's great organizations, the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Customs House, the oldest in the country, has been faithfully restored by the D.A.R.

In Washington, the Society maintains an excellent historical museum and one of the finest genealogical libraries in the world. But the greatest of the D.A.R.'s many contributions to the nation lies in its far-reaching program of patriotic education through which millions of children learn to become better citizens and to appreciate the miracle of America that began at Yorktown almost two centuries ago.

As long as such work continues, that miracle will continue to be a potent force for freedom in the world...
