TROPICAL ISLANDS, ANYONE?

WE KNOW islands—the accessible and the off-beat. We've found unique inns known only to lucky travelers. We know beaches, fantastically lovely, where $300 buys an acre. Our members know everything we know—we send them up-to-date reports on each island with data never to be found in a guide book. Be a member for only $10. of the general structure, administration, control, and operation of the educational system." Only then, and in a brief paragraph, does he acknowledge the place of mastery of subject matter.

Wanting also is a lucid and honest interpretation of John Dewey's approach, together with a castigation of the many who, in ignorance of what he tried to do and when he tried to do it, blame Dewey for all the alleged evils of today's education. Though I. L. Kandel does mention Dewey, Mr. Kandel's overly detailed and unexplained meanderings through philosophical history are inadequate.

The most serious weakness is one difficult to understand. The book pretends to set "the record straight as to the purposes and achievements of American public education . . . from elementary school through college." But Elbert K. Fretwell's contribution on "The American College: Purposes and Practices" has only occasional references specifically to public institutions. The volume lacks, therefore, the extra dimension which might have emerged from a discussion of the social consciousness of our public colleges and universities which led to extension, adult education of various sorts, and direct services, all of which are so characteristic of public higher education. There is no reference either to the number of public teachers' colleges which each state supports, as well as the technical institutes and the host of other divisions of public education beyond the high school. American education at all levels has been influenced dramatically by the growth of public colleges and universities. This volume should have noted that impact.

Because seventeen authors contributed, the writing is somewhat uneven, repetitious, and inconsistent. Only occasionally, however, does it lapse into the clichés which mark so much educational exposition. Perhaps this is because the articles were prepared originally for an Italian journal.

Pick of the Paperbacks

GREAT ISSUES IN AMERICAN HISTORY. Edited by Richard Hofstadter. Vintage. 2 vols. $1.25 each. Documentary selections from prose writings and speeches that helped to make the history of our country. In volume one, representative pieces range from Thomas Paine to Lincoln, and in volume two, which covers the years 1864 to 1957, the selections include speeches by Wilson, FDR, and Eisenhower. This comprehensive catalogue of important issues is accompanied by extensive and elucidating introductions.

THE GREEK VIEW OF LIFE. By G. Lowes Dickinson. Ann Arbor. $1.75. A solid yet thoroughly readable introduction to the days of Hellenic glory, which is infused with a spirit of modernity.

AN INTRODUCTION TO MATHEMATICS. By Alfred North Whitehead. Galaxy. $1.50. Mathematics for the layman who has at least a smattering of algebra in his background. Whitehead, who was for many years professor of philosophy at Harvard, summarizes mathematical theories and concepts in prose that is crisp, comprehensible, and urbane.

BEHAVIOR AND PSYCHOLOGICAL MAN. By Edward Chace Tolman. University of California. $1.95. Problems of motivation and learning are here discussed in nineteen essays, by a leading contemporary psychologist.

A HISTORY OF RUSSIAN LITERATURE. By D. S. Mirsky. Vintage. $1.25. This excellent survey places Russian writing, from the early literature to the works of Leontiev and Chekhov, against a sturdy historical and philosophical background.

REFLECTIONS ON GOVERNMENT. By Ernest Barker. Galaxy. $2.50. An English historian looks at modern history and considers the democratic and anti-democratic movements during the past quarter of a century. His chapter on German socialism is especially interesting.

THE PURITAN MIND. By Herbert W. Schneider. Ann Arbor. $1.85. Puritanism in the United States played an important and formative role in our culture. This book, relating Puritan ethics to its own society, concludes with the influences of Puritanism upon us today.

SCIENCE THEORY AND MAN. By Erwin C. Schrodinger. Dover. $1.35. Written by a Nobel Prize-winning physicist, these essays explore the philosophical problems allied to modern science.

BODY AND MIND IN WESTERN THOUGHT. By Joan Wynn Reeves. Pelican. 85¢. A brief but concise history of psychology, well illustrated by the writings of distinguished philosophers and psychologists.

DIRECTIONS

To solve this puzzle you must guess twenty-odd WORDS, the definitions of which are given in the column headed DEFINITIONS. Alongside each definition, there is a row of dashes—one for each letter in the required word. When you have guessed a word, write it on the dashes, and also write each letter in the correspondingly numbered square of the puzzle diagram. . . . When the squares are all filled in, you will find that you have completed a quotation from some published work. If read up and down, the letters in the diagram have no meaning. . . . Black squares indicate ends of words; if there is no black square at the right side of the diagram, the word carries over to the next line. . . . When all the WORDS are filled in, their initial letters spell the name of the author and the title of the piece from which the quotation has been taken. Of great help to the solver are this acrostic feature and the relative shapes of words in the diagram as they develop. Authority for spellings and definitions is Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition.
