

If your records sound the way he looks, don't throw away your phonograph. Change your needle. To a Duotone genuine diamond tipped needle, that's hand set and hand polished with loving care, or to a synthetic sapphire tipped needle. A new Duotone will make your records sound the way they were recorded to sound. Your old, worn needle robs your records of their highs, mediums and lows... leaving nothing but scratch. Remember, it's better to replace your needle than your record collection.

tion of the organization, she has never worked for herself, for honor or glory or personal power. Undoubtedly, like any other hearer of voices, she puts a high valuation on the mission she has had to perform, and since she is a woman of great intelligence, she cannot be unaware of having performed it well. But her attitude has always been plainly that of one working in trust for the future, as it were, a national trust, a cultural trust, or what you will, but something large, impersonal, and enduring.

Back in 1932, when the Vic-Wells Ballet was just coming into being, she stated unequivocally that if the company did not "survive many a director" it would have "failed utterly in the eyes of the first dancer to hold that post." That she is turning the directorship over now to a successor is clearly in accord with that early conviction.

What is encouraging about it is the definite implication that in her mind (and she should know) the foundation has been solidly laid, the institution is established, healthy and in every way equipped to carry on after she releases the reins. That it will carry on differently under Sir Frederick, who is supremely and exclusively the artist rather than the organizer, is certainly at least as evident to her as it is to the rest of us, and she must be eager to see her own work justified by a successful second flowering. Her eye has always been focused on the future, and here it is.

There is no possibility whatever of her retiring into any sort of isolation from the project. Indeed, she will be appointed Life Governor of the Royal Ballet School, which is the darling of her heart. With its two sections, a day school and a boarding school for "juniors," she has within her vision a large segment of that future for which she is so zealous.

When Prime Ministers retire from office (by request, as it were) it is customary to make earls of them. Surely Dame Ninette cannot be allowed to retire with no equivalent honor. She has been in office far longer than most Prime Ministers and who can say that she has done less? The new year, then, should in all justice find her Countess of—shall we say Islington?

LETTERS TO THE RECORDINGS EDITOR

STUDENTS ALL

YOUR REVIEW of the new Mercury recording of the Eastman Philharmonia Orchestra [SR, Mar. 30] gives a very misleading impression that the orchestra has not been entirely composed of students of the Eastman School of Music. As a member of the Eastman Philharmonia Orchestra for the last three years, I can assure you that both during the tour of Europe and in the recording the orchestra was made up of regular Eastman students only. . . .

The young flutist in the Kennan number was Susan Levitin.

LAURENCE R. TAYLOR.
Hillsdale, Mich.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Both points of information are missing from the record sleeve.

CALLAS AS CARMEN

IN RESPONSE TO a letter you published regarding the possibility of Callas as Carmen [SR, Jan. 26], I would have you take note that this rumor has been spreading through the South for some time now. I sincerely hope that the talk produces results. . . .

BOB BROWN.
Houston, Tex.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Capitol hopes so, too.

LEINSDORF: PROS AND CONS

I AM APPALLED at the letter signed "Bostonian" [SR, Mar. 30].

It does not seem to me that the letters column of a national weekly is the proper place to carry on a discussion about the merits or demerits of a conductor. But even if it were, to publish an unsigned letter from someone who by his own admission, has attended half a concert and listened to a few radio broadcasts seems to me less like responsible music criticism than like spiteful gossip-mongering.

JOHN HOLT.
Boston, Mass.

EDITOR'S NOTE: "Bostonian's" letter was neither unsigned nor anonymous. The signature was omitted by SR at the writer's request.

ONE FOR LEINSDORF

THE BEST THING that has happened to the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the last thirteen years is the resignation of Charles Munch. Stripped of the programs presented by guest conductors, the shell that remains is hardly a tribute to the vast and varied repertoire that is available. Bach, Beethoven, Debussy, Ravel, Brahms (it doesn't matter which composer you choose) all sounded the same under Munch—French!

Half a concert under Leinsdorf is for us a more rewarding musical experience than a whole season under Munch. Unlike

SR/April 27, 1963

"Bostonian," we need no pseudonym, and we are not afraid of disturbing the "peace in our town."

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS ISAACSON.
Woburn, Mass.

ONE FOR "BOSTONIAN"

I HAD JUST decided to skip the forthcoming Boston Symphony concert in Chicago (the first in ten years) when I read with delight the letter from "Bostonian."

I have long regretted that Mr. Munch and his orchestra did not appear here after 1953, and this regret stemmed not only from a desire to hear Munch, whom I happen to like very much, but from a deep wish to hear the Boston Symphony in concert. Why, then, have I decided not to go when the orchestra is at last scheduled to play in Orchestra Hall? Precisely for the reasons which your correspondent has cited.

Mr. Leinsdorf demonstrated long ago, through records, that his approach to music is uncomplicated and simple. He is content merely to play the notes and secure technical perfection. He almost invariably lets other conductorial considerations go to the winds. Thus, one receives from him excellent playing and precise ensemble—and nothing else. Of course, this is an important part of the conductor's task, but when the final tally is taken it stands, I think, as the less important part. . . .

I am saddened that the orchestra of Nikisch, Muck, Monteux, Koussevitzky, and Munch should have come to such straits, and can only hope that we do not have to wait another thirteen years, let alone twenty-five, before live music returns to Boston.

DONALD H. TAIT.

Evanston, Ill.

DISCIPLINE AND MASTERY

IT IS A GREAT PUZZLE to me that often two people listening to the same concert will respond in such opposite ways. How can exactly the same sounds arouse such different feelings? I wondered about this again as I read the letter from "Bostonian" concerning the Boston Symphony and Mr. Leinsdorf. What your correspondent hears as "goose-stepping," I hear as the marvelous discipline and mastery which are so important to any great musical performance. But beyond that, I hear an eloquent and direct communication of the music itself, which gives me the greatest feeling of excitement and exhilaration. . . .

MARGARET W. WOODWORTH.

Belmont, Mass.

WORDS BY HOLIDAY

THANK YOU FOR "Lovelorn Lady," Stanley and Helen Dance's fine article on the incomparable Billie Holiday [SR, Jan. 12]. My husband and I, both avid Saturday Review readers and jazz addicts, were delighted to hear Lady Day's praises being sung.

The Dances, however, stand corrected on one small issue—specifically, the lyric of "Riffin' the Scotch," which was misquoted. Billie, who recorded this in 1933, backed by Teagarden, Goodman, and Krupa among others, was allowed an all-too-short middle chorus, and the words she wailed were, correctly quoted, as follows:

And right into the fire
I jumped out of the fryin' pan
Well, I lost me a cheatin' man
And got a no-count liar.

Swapped the old for the new one
Now the new one's breakin' my heart
I jumped out of the fryin' pan
And right into the fire
Lord, right into the fire.

Billie Holiday does indeed live on in her records! Thanks again to the Dances for remembering, reliving, and reminding.

DIRECTIONS

To solve this puzzle you must guess twenty-odd WORDS, the definitions of which are given in the column headed DEFINITIONS. Alongside each definition, there is a row of dashes—one for each letter in the required word. When you have guessed a word, write it on the dashes, and also write each letter in the correspondingly numbered square of the puzzle diagram. . . . When the squares are all filled in, you will find that you have completed a quotation from some published work. If read up and down, the letters in the diagram have no meaning. . . . Black squares indicate ends of words; if there is no black square at the right side of the diagram, the word carries over to the next line. . . . When all the WORDS are filled in, their initial letters spell the name of the author and the title of the piece from which the quotation has been taken. Of great help to the solver are the acrostic feature and the relative shapes of words in the diagram as they develop. Authority for spellings and definitions is Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition.

From trout to tuna, Canada is famous for its fishing

CANADA

...the wonderful world at your doorstep!

Property of
ASSADOR COLLEGE LIBRARY
Big Sandy, Texas

ONE MORE RAINBOW and his creel will be full. Lunchtime: fresh, pan-fried trout!

Between three oceans, a million lakes and rivers swell each spring, ready to tempt nimrod or novice. Fly fisherman, bait caster or troller, you'll find unparalleled sporting thrills in Canada.

Accept the challenge of the mighty Atlantic salmon in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. Maritimers, naturally, will tell you there is nothing like Atlantic salmon for flavour; Westerners, however, will contest this. For proof, they offer leaping coho, chinook and kokanee. You decide for yourself.

Central Canada rightly boasts of the piscatorial pleasure it offers. Virgin waters in the Yukon and Northwest Territories provide the test of a lifetime.

Go after battling game fish in the coastal waters of B.C. and the Atlantic Provinces. (Perhaps you're the man to top the world tuna record -977 lb.-caught off Nova Scotia in 1950!)

Should your family not share your enthusiasm, there are many compensations—boating, swimming, water-skiing, hiking or just relaxing in Canada's great outdoors.

Luxury "fly-in" fishing lodges (as well as drive-in) cater to outdoor-whetted appetites. Expert, knowledgeable guides are readily available.

It's always "open season" for hospitality! Drop us a line—we'll send you the Fisherman's Guide, which includes angling regulations for each of Canada's ten provinces.
